

Best Practices 2017-2018

- I. The Menstrual Health and Hygiene Workshop had students plan and interact with the local adolescent girls and women. They made poster presentations, and held one-to one awareness cum counselling sessions with the young adult girls. Free sanitary napkins from the college vending machine were also distributed. The community workshop was preceded by a preparatory orientation programme aimed at demystifying social taboos and medical myths regarding Menstruation.

- II. In addition to the main presentation on Global Warming, the students formed a core group of campaigners. Members of this core group continued the campaign beyond the college premises and disseminated information among the broader community.
