EVENTS RELATED TO ENVIRONMENT AND SUSTAINABILITY

2018 - 2019

1. Name of the event: “Beat Plastic Pollution”

Category: Departmental activity.

Link for syllabus: <https://wbsubregistration.org/syllabus/geography-cbcs-draft-syllabus.pdf>

Organising unit : Geography Department & NSS Team, RKSMVV.

Date : 04.10.2018

Time : 2 pm to 3 pm

Venue : Muktiprana Sabhagriha (College Auditorium)

Name of the Resource Person/s : Students of Geography Dept.

Number of Participants : All students, teachers & staffs of RKSMVV

Brief description of the event :

An environmental awareness programme was held on ‘Beat Plastic Pollution’ on 04.10.2018, on the occasion of World Environment Day, 2018. Students presented on different aspects of nature and the importance of celebration of this particular day.

Programme Outcome :

On 5 June every year, the World Health Organization (WHO) and thousands of communities and organizations celebrate World Environment Day. This year, the theme of the Day was “Beat plastic pollution” – a call for action for the world to work together to address one of the great environmental challenges of our time and raise global awareness of the need to reduce the heavy burden of plastic pollution on people’s health and the threat it poses to the environment and wildlife. India served as the global host of the 2018 World Environment Day. The students tried to explain how conscious we need to be about the environment. This activity made other students very motivated. Use of Plastics in different forms is very much detrimental for our sustainable survival and also for future generations as it does a lot of harm to us and also our environment.

Organizer: Department of Sanskrit

Date: 19.04.2019

Time: 11.45am onwards

Resource person/ Guiding faculty: Dr. Saberi Rakshit

No. of participants: 26 students of Semester III

Venue: Room no. 26

Brief Description: Avijnanashakuntalam, the masterpiece of Kalidasa shows the variety of human values in various aspect. The text shows how to protect the wild animals, how to take care of flowers plants and nature, how to be kind and humble to everyone.

Outcome: The micro-teaching gave an insight on what should be the perfect role of a man, as a king, as a son, as a lover, as a husband, and as the representative of the people. This text strongly shows the result of the dereliction of duty and the tragic result of careless mind. And mainly this text highlights the eternal truth of human life, that the estrangement can make a relationship stronger.

Resource person: Prof. Amit Dey, Department of History, University of Calcutta

No. of participants: 20 students of Semester III

Venue: Smart Classroom

Brief Description: A noted specialist in Medieval Indian history and culture with a wide knowledge of the times as well as grasp over Farsi gave an incisive information on the origins and evolution of Bhakti and Sufi Movements in a comparative paradigm. This was organized for all the three semester students.

Programme Outcome: His lecture brought the period to life, and explained the multiplicity of Islamicate cultures that had come to India, and had been both influenced by pre-existing cultural-religious trends as well as influencing them. The world of the Sufi Sants was shown to be different from the world of the orthodox Ulama, promoting a personalised way to salvation. At the same time, Professor De made it clear to the students not to assume that Sufi and Bhakti were identical movements, though both stressed personal faith

Organizer: Department of History

Date: 17.12.2019

Time: 1.45pm

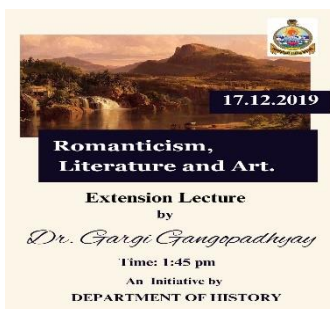

Resource person: Dr. Gargi Gangopadhyay, Department of English, RKSM Vivekananda Vidyabhavan

No. of participants: 20 students of 3rd Year

Venue: Smart Classroom

Brief Description: This Lecture was organised for the Third Year B.A. History Honours course students. The features of Romanticism in Art and Literature was explained to the students. Students could develop a critical approach towards the analysis of the topic

Programme Outcome: Dr. Gangopadhyay's extremely intensive and thought-provoking lecture made it clear that history and literature have close ties. However, each is also a distinct discipline. Students were also shown the beautiful illustrations by William Blake when he wrote the poems projecting uniqueness of each individual's search for truth. She also talked about the gender dimension of Romanticism and how the Neo-classical tradition was challenged by this movement. Calling in a teacher of literature to discuss Romanticism enabled the History students to see romanticism not just as a historical stage, but as an aesthetic tradition that rejected the hard rationalism of the Enlightenment.

Time: 12.30pm

Resource persons: Dr. Miratun Nahar, Educationist and Social activist (retired faculty Victoria Institution); Professor Sabyasachi Chattopadhyay, Department of History, Kalyani University; Dr. Subhendu Dasmunshi, Department of Bengali, Sir Gurudas Mahavidyala, Professor Shyamal Chakrabarti, Department of Chemistry, Calcutta University; Dr. Rohini Dharmapal, Department of Education, RKSM Vivekananda Vidyabhavan; Dr. Sabita Chaudhuri, Department of Political Science, RKSM Vivekananda Vidyabhavan

No. of participants: 40 students of all semesters

Venue: Mukti-prana Sabhagriha

Brief Description: Organised respective departments of History, Political Science and Education of RKSM Vivekananda Vidyabhavan, this seminar sought to develop perspectives on Vidyasagar, not as uncritical hagiography, but in the spirit of inquiry that he himself wished to instil. This was indeed a major lesson held out for the students who attended the seminar. This was a daylong seminar commemorating Vidyasagar as an educationist, social reformer, and one of the makers of the modern Bangla language and literature. Many facets of his activities and personality were discussed, including his stress on science and scientific thought in the education of the young, his role in developing a usable written Bangla prose, and his role in the spread of education.

Programme Outcome: The seminar sought to develop nuanced perspectives on Vidyasagar, not as uncritical hagiography, but in the spirit of inquiry that he himself wished to instil. This was indeed a major lesson held out for the students who attended the seminar.

Category: Seminar

Organizer: Department of History

Date: 24.02.2020

Time: 11am

Resource persons: Dr. Sukanya Sarkar, Associate Professor of History, Sarojini Naidu College for Women, Dr Sunetra Mitra, Assistant Professor, Department of History, RKSMVV, Dr Chirantan Dasgupta, Assistant Professor, Department of History, Amdanga Jugal Kishore Mahavidyalaya and Professor Nirban Basu, Department of History, University of Calcutta. Three students from each college also spoke.

No. of participants: 95

Venue: Gandhi Smarak Sangrahalaya Auditorium, Barrackpore

Brief Description: Dr. Mitra gave the main speech, examining the events in the Punjab leading up to the Jallianwala Bagh massacre and its aftermath. Professor Basu gave a speech providing the wider context of post-World War I all-India unrest and the fear that generated among the rulers. Faculty from the other participating colleges also spoke briefly. This was however, planned as a student event, and three students from each college gave five-minute presentations looking at the event and the long scar it has left in the historical memory of India.

Programme Outcome: The lectures by the teachers provided a depth of vision and clarity, highlighting how the post-World War I situation transformed India swiftly from a country where the nationalists were in the main content to move through constitutional means, to one where mass struggles increasingly came to be seen as essential, and the goal of full independence started being articulated. The papers by students served to train the students in both research and the art of public speaking, with a clear understanding of their subject matter and the tools of their discipline.

Time: 4pm onwards

Resource person: Dr. Debasis Mondal; Faculty and Head, Department of Journalism and Mass Communication, Vivekananda College

No. of participants: 24 Students of all semester including faculty members

Venue: Zoom meeting

Brief description: Prof. Dr. Debasis Mondal; College Contractual Full-time Teacher, Department of Journalism and Mass Communication, Vivekananda College, gave an insightful lecture on Development Communication and its allied approaches. This topic is included in our CBCS syllabus under Sem 4 (CC-9). Our respected speaker showed a power point presentation, some pictures and videos on Development Communication and its allied approaches. He also explained the concept of Development in Third World nations. He had explained different development communication approaches like empathy, magic multipliers and the ideation of diffusion of Innovation (Bell shaped model). To help our students with any questions they had, we set up a question-and-answer session.

Programme Outcome: Students came to know the concepts of Empathy and how it is generally recognized by members of a society as a set of practices, beliefs and objects that are dominant or prevalent in a society at a given point in time. Students were able to comprehend knowledge on innovation and successful social interaction, which depends on our ability to adopt an empathic attitude or to put ourselves in the shoes of others as we go through some developmental changes in our lives. This informative Lecture was attended with enthusiasm by all 24 students of the Department. Our department successfully handled the question-and-answer session, which helped students learn more specifically about media and culture.

Venue: Zoom meeting

Brief description: Dr. Supratim Biswas; State Team Lead and Senior Project Officer (SPO) for UNDP, India, Tripura, gave an insightful lecture on Health Communication in an age of Covid-19: Challenges and Opportunities. Our respected speaker showed a power point presentation, some pictures and videos on Health Communication in an age of Covid-19: Challenges and Opportunities. He also explained that the extensive use of information and communication technologies significantly increased access to information and played a key role in its dissemination. However, an abundance of information posed a threat to public health, as did the infodemic, which transmitted incorrect and distorted information and subsequently affected people's behaviour and, in turn, public health. To help our students with any questions they had, we set up a question-and-answer session.

Outcome: Students came to know that in order to effectively control the COVID-19 epidemic, communication in the health sector has been crucial. In order to educate the public about health hazards and illness prevention, it is widely known that public health is a very challenging arena in which to intervene. This informative Lecture was attended with enthusiasm by all 25 students of the department. Our department successfully handled the question-and-answer session, which helped students learn more specifically Health communication during Covid 19.

Brief Description: Chipitakacharvanam, a Prahasana, written by Shreejib Nayatirtha, explores the various sights of our society, on the aspect of human values. How the relation between a couple got dumped by the tremendous greedy and thrifty nature of the husband. How the maids and servants become confused and do the meaningless idiotic job by the furious behaviour of their master. How the fake Tantrik can easily capture the head of the family due to his extreme miserliness and greed and volatility towards everyone in his family.

Outcome: The micro-teaching taught the students to evaluate the persons around us with grace, trust and a gentle smile, or else the bonding or the value of any relation will become meaningless.

Programme Outcome: The Workshop was very insightful for the students. Our students obtained a lot of information from the workshop. The term “fake news” was first used in the 19th century, so students learned that misinformation is not a new phenomenon, but that its creation and dissemination have changed as a result of the internet and social media. Before the internet, news was typically obtained via reliable media outlets whose reporters had to abide by stringent ethical standards. With few editorial standards or oversight, the internet made it possible to produce, exchange, and consume news and information in new ways. Nowadays, a lot of people get their news from social media and other online sources, but it's not always simple to tell which stories are true and which are not.

Venue: Webinar on GSuite

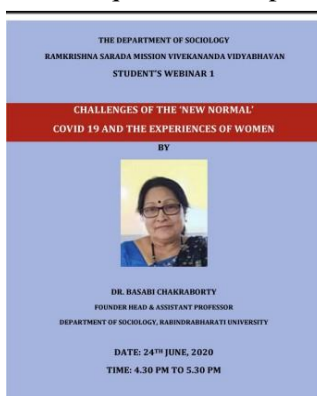

Resource Person: Dr. Basabi Chakraborty, Founder Head and Senior Faculty, Department of Sociology, RBU, Former visiting faculty of Women's Studies Centre, CU and RBU

No of students present: 15

No of teachers: 4

Brief Description: The speaker talked about how the pandemic was proving to be a difficult time for women staying behind closed walls increasing the risk of domestic violence and the inability to seek help. Some key points she addressed about this issue were about the surge in domestic violence cases during lockdowns and quarantine measures. Isolation, financial stress, and uncertainty contributed to heightened tensions within households. Job losses and financial strain during the pandemic added to the stress within households, which could trigger or worsen incidents of domestic violence. Other issues such as access to proper services and few opportunities for the victim to report the incident.

Outcome: The students gained awareness about the issue of domestic violence and how it might be negatively affecting women more than men because of the COVID-19 pandemic. It was a very thought-provoking and interactive session. Students also asked their queries. The speaker also mentioned a short film related to this issue.

Date: 26.06.2020

Time: 11 am-12 pm

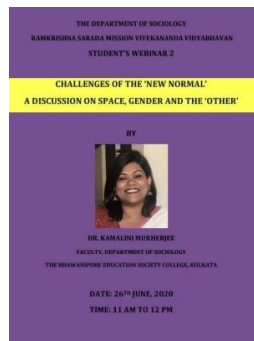

Venue: Webinar via G Suite

No of students participated: 15

No of teachers: 4

Brief description: The Department of Sociology organized a webinar series on the Challenges of COVID-19 and the New Normal that was being faced by society. In this webinar series, a discussion on Space, Gender and the 'Other' was done. She first made the students understand the concept of space in Sociology both physical and social and how individuals interact and operate within that space. She mentioned the ways in which physical, social, and virtual spaces influence the overall structure of society and how this space functions to create exclusions in society. She also focused on the ways in which these aspects of social space were working to exclude Queer people during the covid pandemic in the broader context of otherization that takes place in public spaces, home and family, work space among others.

Outcome: The students became aware of the concept of space in sociology and how space interacts with other aspects of society such as gender. It taught the students to see the new normal in a different light of gender and space, how the two interacted with each other and how it affected the different social groups in society. The students especially learned about the experiences of gender-queer people, a topic relevant not only as part of the syllabus but also because of the expanding horizon of gender fluid identities and interactions that one has to traverse as part of everyday life in urban spaces in India.

Number of Beneficiaries: 96

Brief Description: Department of Sanskrit and IQAC of Acharya Prafulla Chandra College and RKSMVV has jointly organized a State Level Seminar on “Shatabarshe e juger Gargi . Sukumari Bhattacharya”. The programme started at 4:30 pm with the Vedic Chanting by the students of RKSMVV followed by an informative and excellent welcome address by Dr. Chaiti Mitra, IQAC Coordinator, RKSMVV. Opening remarks and introduction of the programme was given by Dr. Sanghamitra Mukherjee, HOD, Dept. of Sanskrit, RKSMVV. She emphasized the need of literary contributions of Sukumari Bhattacharya..

Next, it was Dr. Saktibrata Bhowmik, the Principal of APC College, who presented forth a speech in which he cordially welcomed and shared his gratitude to all the people present. He also emphasized on the importance of the seminar and hoped for this seminar to culminate into a successful and enriching one. Afterwards Dr. Didhiti Biswas and Dr. Nilanjana Sikdar elaborately discussed the literary creations of Sukumari. These speeches were followed by question, discussion and viewpoints of the participants and speakers.

Programme Outcome: All the participants enjoyed the session. Sukumari Bhattacharya was a profound scholar and humanitarian who worked towards gender equality and freedom of expression for women during her lifetime. She had a tremendous command over so many languages beginning from her vernacular Bengali to Sanskrit, English, German, French, Pali and the list only gets longer. Her adherence to secularism, her engagement in almost all the avenues of language and her involvement in different branches of philosophical understanding made her one of the greatest luminaries of her time.

Organizer: History Department in collaboration with the Gender Resource Centre of RKSM Vivekananda Vidyabhavan

. Date: 09.01.2021

. Time: 6pm-8pm

Name of the Resource Person: Dr. Mallarika Sinha Roy, Assistant Professor, Centre for Women's Studies, School of Social Sciences, JNU; Dr. Bratati Hore, Associate Professor, Surendranath College for Women, Kolkata

Number of the Participants: 55

Brief Description: This online series of lectures was organised for the students from all disciplines. The lecture by Dr. Hore showed ordinary communists women's participation in political movements in the period just after independence. Dr. Sinha Roy's take was on the Naxalbari Movements in Bengal and women's participation in the 1960s and 70s.

Outcome: The examination of political mobilization of women focused on communists in the late 1940s and in the Naxalbari era. Delivered by two authors who have done a huge amount of research on the subject, the complexities of gender politics and radicalism were teased out. Gendering of the learning of history is an important task for the teacher, but since the CBCS syllabi in History give limited opportunity, a talk of this kind is quite crucial for students and enabled them to raise gendered issues of left movements.

Name of the Resource Person: Dr. Aditi Chattopadhyaya, Associate Professor, Dept of Bengali, Alipurduyar University

Date: 10.01.21

Number of Participants: 72

Brief description: In this session Dr. Aditi Chattopadhyay shed light on the condition of women in the patriarchal society which was woven in the fairy tales of different countries and continents of the world.

While extracting the facts from her discussion we found that since the dawn of civilization human race resorted to fairy tales and folklores to describe their then condition of the society, its intricacies and conducts in different situations. Highlighting the condition of the women folks was one of the most important factors under the supremacy of the patriarchs. This was vital because women were the ones who used to run the household through their physical and mental efforts, sire children. But instead of being respected as well as revered they were oppressed and faced tyranny of men since ages.

Programme Outcome: This lecture falls light on the unobserved version of folk tales and fairy tales which helps the students to grow a gender-awareness through literature. The students understand the deep-rooted patriarchy in society and culture and thus they can explore those childhood stories from a new gender-related perspective.

Time: 12 pm

Number of the Participants: 14 students of Semester III

Venue: Online Platform - Google Meet Link: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=NK01mbYoE50>

Brief Description: Students paid tribute to Savitribai Phule, who was a social reformer and poet. She played a pivotal role in India's fight against caste-based discrimination and gender inequality. Born in 1831, she defied societal norms by becoming the first female teacher in India. The students' presentation of Savitribai Phule had covered the following aspects:

- Her Early Life and Education,
- Pioneering Education for Women,
- Advocacy for widow remarriage,
- Campaign against child marriage,
- Fight against untouchability,
- Her poetry and writings that championed equality and justice,
- Her use of literature as a tool for social change,
- Savitribai's impact on women's empowerment and education
- Her role in shaping modern India.

Programme Outcome: The students were inspired by Savitribai's courage and determination. Many expressed a desire to follow in her footsteps and contribute to social reforms. Participants gained a deeper understanding of the challenges faced by women in the 19th century. The presentation highlighted the importance of education as a tool for empowerment. The legacy of Savitribai Phule served as a reminder that individual actions can create lasting impact.

Resource Person: Prof. Maitrayee Chaudhuri, Centre For Study of Social Systems, JNU

No of students participated: 70

No of teachers: 4

Brief Description: The speaker discussed feminism in the context of India and provided a history of Indian feminism. She presented a schematic account of feminism in India; brought up some theoretical and methodological issues entailed in representing it and talked about the practice and theory of feminism. She also discussed and brought into light the changes over time in the contemporary context. She talked about her early years as a student of Indian women's issues in the late 1970s and early 1980s, the developments since, and the rich and complex body of feminist writings that emerged which in many ways have become institutionalized within academia as well as within policy-making, whether of various states or of international agencies, the rise of multiculturalism and postmodernism, postcolonial studies, and the greater visibility of India and Indian scholarship in the last decades.

Outcome: The students were able to know the detailed history of Feminism in India and how it has progressed over the years. Overall discussion made students curious to study feminism in details and various issues related to feminism. Students were able to relate with the discussion. The students had many questions in the interactive session where they were able to clear their doubts and gain much overall knowledge about feminism in India. There was immense participation of students as well as teachers which was unexpected. The students also received e-certificates.

Organized by: The Department of Philosophy in collaboration with Gender Resource Centre

Date: 30.01. 2021.

Time: 11am

Name of the Resource Person: Dr. Atreyee Mukherjee of Department of Philosophy, WBSU

Brief Description: With a vision to have a month long lecture series on various gender related issues, the Gender Resource Centre of RKSMVV organized Webinars to be conducted by the individual departments on their relevant issues. The department of philosophy invited Dr. Atreyee Mukherjee to share her esteemed thoughts on Objectivity through feminist lens. It was a very thought-provoking lecture.

Programme Outcome: The lecture explored the concept of objectivity through a feminist lens, highlighting how traditional notions of objectivity often exclude or marginalize women's perspectives. It argued for a broader, more inclusive definition of objectivity that recognizes the influence of social and gender biases in shaping knowledge and truth.

Name of the Resource Persons :

1. Prof. Dulal Chandra Das

Associate Professor, Dept .of Geography, Bidhan Nagar Govt. College.

2. Mrs. Yogia Dutta

Assistant Professor, Dept. of Geography, Haldia Govt. College.

Brief Description: The program was conducted on a zoom platform. Both the resource persons delivered their valuable speech. The title of the presentation of Prof. Dulal Chandra Das was “Gender Inequality in India”. The title of the presentation of Mrs. Yogia Duttawas “Myth and Reality of Tribal Women in India: Striving to co-exist in the Fourth World”. There was a brief question-answer session after deliberation of the resource persons for 10 minutes.

Programme Outcome: Gender Studies is an academic discipline with deep roots and an enormous resonance in the contemporary world. The field is constantly developing, and new research themes, journals and programs keep emerging, testifying to the profound and far-reaching significance of the knowledge produced. Gender studies as a field of study does not offer a single, united approach to understanding the phenomenon of gender. The interdisciplinary nature of the topic and the variety of areas from which gender analysis has emerged means that there are multiple and at times conflicting streams of thought about gender and its meaning and origins. Gender studies developed alongside and emerged out of Women’s Studies, which consolidated as an academic field of inquiry in the 1970s

Brief Description: As part of the curriculum, the department of Sociology organized a poster presentation for all the departmental students. They made a single poster on “Violence against women”. The event envisaged that empowering a woman was a way to defend not only violation against a specific gender but also it could raise the level of standard of the society

Programme Outcome: This event threw light on the value of women in our society. To create awareness on gender equality was thought as one of the supreme pillars of good governance in our society. The event made us realise the role of importance of women in our society. They shared the concerns about how women face challenges in cyberspace and sexual harassment everywhere. To create awareness and to rise one's voice against the violence is understood as the need of the hour. Among the various forms of violence, domestic aggression against women is a serious issue. Violence is considered a "silent epidemic". The event highlighted the lack of proper education, lack of awareness and lack of adequate laws as the root cause for gender-against violence. The main aim to celebrate this event is to create awareness for a healthy society.
