11. Family by Piyasa

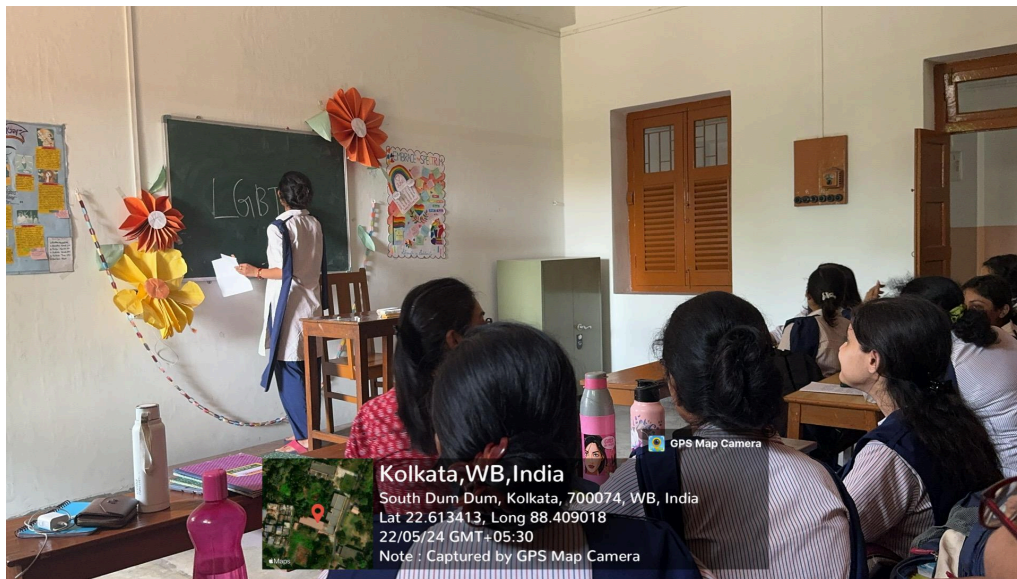

Questions were asked by their classmates on their doubts and understanding. A group discussion was also held for 20 minutes where the 1st year and 2nd year students cleared their doubts from their seniors.

Programme Outcome

The session covered various topics from the Sociology syllabus and fostered an interactive and collaborative academic environment.

To develop teaching and presentation skills in Semester 4 students. It helped in promoting peer learning and knowledge sharing within the department. The first-year students got to understand some key basic concepts from their seniors. Thus the micro-teaching session was a successful initiative, achieving its skill development and knowledge-sharing objectives. The Department of Sociology looks forward to organising more such events to continue enriching the academic experience of its students.
