- Brief description of the event: This extension lecture was organised by the Department of Geography, RKSMVV for the students of Semester 5. The session was of two hours in duration from 2:00 pm – 4:00 pm and mainly focused on the concept & methodology of research which is an important part of the syllabus (GEOACOR11T - Research Methodology & Field Work in Geography). The program started with brief introduction notes about the resource person. After that, the session was handed over to the speaker. All the students listened to the presentation very attentively. The lecture ended with a vote of thanks to the resource person, all students, and also the organising units of the department.
- Programme Outcome: Research is an important subject in all fields of study. Research methodology gives research scientifically sound findings. The research aims to understand the nature of the problem. The lecture gives students the basic concept of research methodology in social science. It addresses the issues inherent in selecting a research problem and discusses the tools and techniques to be employed in completing a research project. This is also helpful for the students to use qualitative and quantitative methods of data analysis in research. Students will be able to demonstrate the ability to choose methods appropriate to research objectives and this will also enable students to prepare report writing and framing research proposals.
