A visit to the book fair is always an inspiring experience for students. It provides them with a valuable opportunity to consult various reference books and explore a wide range of literature beyond their prescribed syllabus. During the visit, the accompanying teachers extended their support by guiding the students in selecting useful and relevant study materials. The lectures delivered by eminent writers at the fair were particularly enlightening and offered deeper insights into contemporary literary and cultural discussions. The book fair, by combining education with amusement, effectively extends the teaching-learning process beyond the conventional boundaries of the classroom.
