A book fair is an excellent opportunity to build students' home libraries. It further develops their reading and comprehension skills and often builds knowledge and vocabulary essential for understanding new subject matter. Book fairs often showcase more than just books. Audiobooks, electronic books, and other forms of digital media are often featured at book fairs. Students were exposed to the various forms and genres of books, and most of them bought books based on their interests, like drawing, adventure and detective fiction, and also based on their syllabus. All of them benefited from the visit to the book fair.
