Description of the Event: The Cultural Sub Committee of RKSMVV organized an innovative waste craft competition titled "Scrap to Table" on 20th February 2025. The event aimed to encourage creativity and sustainability by transforming waste materials into useful and aesthetically pleasing table décor. Five students participated in the competition, each presenting unique handcrafted items made from discarded materials such as paper, plastic, fabric scraps, and old household items.

The competition was judged by three esteemed judges named Mita Das, Dipanita Mondal Kundu and Dr. Rohini Dharmapal who evaluated the participants based on creativity, utility, and overall presentation. The event witnessed enthusiastic participation, with students showcasing their artistic skills while promoting the concept of upcycling.

Outcome: The "Scrap to Table" competition provided students with an opportunity to explore their creativity while understanding the importance of sustainable practices. Participants learned how to repurpose waste materials effectively, reducing environmental impact. The event also emphasized resourcefulness, problem-solving, and the value of innovation in everyday life. Overall, it fostered an eco-conscious mindset among students, inspiring them to adopt sustainable habits in the future.
