

Name of the activity: "Marxian Human: Notes on Alienation"

Category: Extension Lecture

Organising Unit: Department of Political Science, RKSMVV

Date: 28.02.2025

Time: 11.30am

Venue: Room No. 08

Number of Participants: 30 students, 4 faculties

Resource Person: Dr. Himadri Chatterjee, Assistant Professor, Department of Political science, University of Calcutta

Brief description of the event: The Department of Political Science hosted an Extension Lecture on "Marxian Human: Notes on Alienation" on 28th February 2025 by Dr. Himadri Chatterjee, Assistant Professor in Political Science, University of Calcutta. Dr. Chatterjee delivered an insightful lecture for the Honours students of all semesters of the Department of Political Science. The lecture was held in Room no. 8 from 11.30am.

Programme Outcome: The lecture delved into Marx's concept of alienation and its relevance in contemporary society. Dr. Chatterjee explained complex ideas in a clear and accessible manner, making the session engaging for students. The discussion highlighted how capitalist structures can lead to a sense of estrangement among individuals. Students actively participated in the discussions thereafter. Overall, it was a very useful and intellectually stimulating session.

