Topic: Hedonism in Western Ethics

Date: 22.8.25

Venue: Room No. 8

Resource Person: 4th Semester Students

No. of Participants: 21

Brief Description:

The 4th semester students of the Department of Philosophy jointly presented a paper on Hedonism in Western Ethics. Each of the students explained in detail the Hedonistic approach of Ethics in Western Philosophy. They explained in detail the different views of Hedonism along with their specific characteristics. The most interesting part of their presentation was that they used PPT presentation along with their verbal discussion.

Program outcome:

The presentation made jointly by the students of the 4th semester helped them experience the process of presenting a paper, facing questions, and learning the benefits of group discussion. The program ended with an interactive question session.
