Brief description of the Event:

On 16th April 2026, the Department of Bengali, RKSMVV in collaboration with IQAC, organized an extension lecture on the text Selected poems of Jibanananda Das, which is included in Major, Bengali (NEP) Semester 4, DSC7 syllabus of West Bengal State University by Dr. Ballari Ray Chaudhury, Assistant Professor, Department of Bengali, Gokhale memorial Girls’ College. Students from semester 4, semester 1, along with 2 faculty members attended the session with great enthusiasm. The lecture was highly informative and engaging. Dr. Ray Chaudhury explained the poetic thoughts and uses of languages by the poet, his time, contemporary poets and their views towards Jibanananda Das. The session significantly enhanced the students’ appreciation of literature and its relevance in contemporary times.

Outcome of the Event:

The poems of Jibanananda Das are significant text in the Semester IV (NEP) syllabus. Jibanananda Das is one of the most celebrated modern Bengali poets, known for his deeply evocative imagery, quiet introspection, and a unique sense of time, memory, and nature. Dr. Ray Chaudhury explained very simple way how his poetry often blends the beauty of Bengal with loneliness, existential reflection, his own philosophy of life and a dreamlike atmosphere. His poetic language, using of unusual metaphors and a slow, reflective rhythm make him unlike from other contemporary poets, which is more inward and modernist. Students were very much enriched by the lecture and they also discussed their own thoughts with her.
